Exercising too much is merely a waste of time, since the results you are getting is so little compared to all the job you take into it. It is the concept that 20 percent of the work you take into it gives 80 percent of the outcome. The remainder of the 80 percent work you have done is squandered, because it only gives you a 20 percent result. After that you are far better off investing more time on doing other points that will certainly optimize your fat burning.
